M&S 'to quit town' if move is rejected

MARKS & Spencer could quit Harlow completely if plans to open a Simply Food store at an out-of-town retail park are rejected by Harlow Council.

The retailer is seeking permission to convert a former electronics store next to Cineworld at the Queensgate Centre in Edinburgh Way to one that will allow the sale of food, drink and other goods.

But, a report to Harlow Council's development committee, who were to make a decision last night after the Star went to press, recommends the plans be rejected on the grounds that the new store would take trade away from the town centre.

The report states: "It is considered that there are available, suitable and viable sequentially preferable alternative locations for development in Harlow town centre."

In a letter to the council, a representative for M&S said: "Finally, if M&S cannot relocate to a Simply Food store, the alternative cannot be assumed to be a continuation of the existing town centre store. If relocation is not possible, M&S will open consultation with employee representatives on a proposal to close the existing Harlow store."

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

The company says staff have been notified of this decision and although the council would like the firm to stay it says decision are taken based on "our knowledge and experience trading in Harlow".

Since 2006/7 total store turnover has declined in real terms by 30 per cent and turnover on food has declined by 39 per cent.

M&S say "very many Harlow residents" choose to visit their store at the Brookfield Centre in Cheshunt because of its size and accessibility.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon held a meeting with representatives from M&S at the House of Commons on Monday (October 20).

He said his priority was the 50 jobs at risk if permission is not granted for a new store.

Speaking after the meeting, Mr

Halfon said: "Let me get one thing clear: I would love Marks & Spencer to remain in the Broad Walk/Harvey Centre."

"I recognise its historic association with our town and also its value to residents and employees. I know that if the store moves, it will potentially impact on the successful regeneration of our town centre."

"Marks & Spencer has made a commercial decision to move to Edinburgh Way, in part of the old PC World Store."

"Most importantly, 50 jobs will be preserved that could otherwise be lost if the store closes."

"Marks and Spencer have said to me that if the council refuse planning permission on Wednesday evening, it is likely that they will still close the Broadwalk Store with fifty jobs at risk. They may leave Harlow completely."

In a letter from the landlords of Queensgate Property, they confirm that it is unlikely they will appeal if the council refuse planning permission.

A little bit of the United States arrives in the Water Gardens

A LITTLE bit of America has arrived in Harlow with the opening of Five Guys restaurant in the Water Gardens.

The restaurant, which is famous for its burgers, opened on Monday and sits alongside Pizza Express, Frankie & Benny's, Nando's and Esquires.

Five Guys has become synonymous for having no freezers – just fresh ingredients and was voted as having the best $5 burger a man can eat by GQ magazine.

Fans of the chain include President of the United States Barack Obama and Prime Minister David Cameron, who famously got collared for not leaving a tip earlier this year.

Water Gardens manager Beryl Murphy said: "Five Guys is a five-star addition to the choice of quality eateries we have to offer at the Water Gardens."

"We're looking forward to welcoming Five Guys fanatics - who can choose from 250,000 possible combinations for their burgers."

"From Harlem Avenue in New York City to Harlow, this is an exciting time."

Indecent images charge for officer

A POLICE officer charged with two counts of making indecent images of children will appear before magistrates.

Ben Hodder, 34, of Thurrock, was arrested by officers on May 8, this year.

Hodder, who was district commander for Harlow in 2010, has now been suspended from his role as a police officer. He has been bailed to appear at Basildon Magistrates Court on Thursday, November 6.

Plans unveiled for market expansion

AN additional 16 to 18 pitches will be joining the town's market as part of plans to improve the area by Harlow Council.

The authority unveiled plans to "improve the viability of the town's market and town centre" at a meeting on Thursday. They hope the plans will encourage more traders to come to the area.

From November the existing market, which will be celebrate its 60th anniversary in 2016, will expand into Broad Walk.

Councillor Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "The market has been in Harlow for more than 58 years and is an important part of our town centre."

"There is a perception that the council doesn't support the market but this couldn't be further from the truth."

"We have been working hard to look at how we can improve the market and the choice for residents and help make it a more viable business for traders."

According to documents released by the council, the pitches would run right up to Little Walk and would be placed around existing benches and walls.

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The free trading period incentive for new market traders will be extended from six trading days to three months and the market will now operate on Mondays, Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

It will not open on a Thursday, following research by the local authority that highlighted the day as having a low number of traders.

The changes will be trialled for six months.

Cllr Durcan added: "The proposed plans will give the council a chance to try some new things and then review what has worked as options for the future of the market are explored."

"A vibrant market expanded in a busier part of the town centre could be just what the town and the town centre needs."

Licensing approval will be needed for the expansion of the market into Broad Walk.

Now that Harlow Council have agreed to the expansion, the statutory licensing approval process has started for trading at the north end of Broad Walk.

The process will include a two-week public consultation and will then be either approved or rejected by the licensing sub-committee.

In a report to support the application to expand the market, the council explain that it has been difficult to attract new traders to the area.

The report said: "Harlow market has seen a large decline in terms of traders and footfall. This is reflective of not only a general decline of activity within this area, but radical changes in the retail environment and how people are shopping; this has resulted in market traders being lost in the expanse of the Market Square."

"Even though Harlow Council has been working towards supporting an improved and sustainable market, it has proved extremely difficult to attract new traders."

"A number of improvements have been made...however, these changes have made little to no improvement to the market, which is currently operating below capacity and at a financial loss."

READERS LETTERS

Stereotyped for supporting a zero-tolerance approach

SIR It was with interest that I read the two replies (Star, October 9) to my original letter of the week before regard the problem of illegal Traveller sites in Harlow. It struck me as quite ironic that they appeared opposite a very factual article by reporter Bianca Castro regarding this very problem.

The replies by David Foreman on behalf of Cllr Waide Foreman and of Adam Cochran both chose to ignore the very point of my original letter – that as a Harlow councillor Ms Foreman was acting disgracefully in actively supporting the criminal actions of the Travellers.

In the article it describes the encampments as illegal and unauthorised no less than six times and mentions that they contravene Section 61 of the Criminal Justice Act 1994. It begs the question as to what part of illegal and unauthorised don't they understand?

And if they do understand the meanings, then please explain to all Harlow residents why and how an elected councillor can actively campaign on behalf of the perpetrators.

Words such as hatred, spiteful and discrimination and the strong hint that I am simply prejudiced against Travellers simply show how they are so ready to stereotype anyone who thinks a zero-tolerance approach should be taken against all who walk the illegal side of the line.

In fact as an OAP and a former NUR/RMT union activist for almost 45 years, it is ironic to me that we must be politically correct and only call them Travellers. The main problem is that they refuse to travel anywhere. If they did there would be little problem.

And no, moving just 100 yards across the road doesn't count as travel.

Alan Jewell

Harlow (full address supplied)

It's no wonder Travellers see Harlow as an easy touch

SIR I have lived in Harlow since 1965 and I have never seen a situation like we have this year with Travellers running rings around the council.

I find it incredible that the council cannot deal with the problem and the police inform us it is a difficult situation. How can Hatfield Heath and Epping move on Travellers with no difficulty? Perhaps it is because the Travellers have informed us they like Harlow because the council is easy.

Many of our facilities such as The Playhouse are under threat but we are wasting thousands of pounds serving summons and clearing up after Travellers.

If law-abiding citizens were to park a caravan on the town's green spaces I am sure they would be prosecuted immediately with no excuses about how difficult the situation was. There are two permanent Traveller sites in Harlow so the council has fulfilled its obligations.

The Travellers are not deprived members of society; you only have to count the number of BMWs, Mercedes and luxury caravans they have. And how many pay council tax?

Come on, Harlow Council. Stop making

This week's photo was taken by John Curry, of Old Orchard, Harlow. "I thought that you might like this photograph of a clump of small mushrooms; it was taken during a walk in Jean McAlpine Park on a lovely, mellow autumn day."

If you have taken a photo which you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

excuses and look after the taxpayers of Harlow who deserve better.

A. Smith
Harlow (full address supplied)

I would like to hear from an independent representative

SIR Before I start, I want to make some things clear from the outset.

I don't like the traveller situation in Harlow any more than anyone else. I hate seeing the mess that it generates, and I resent paying my council tax as a result – even though I know that not all of it goes to the council.

This situation affects everyone – it doesn't matter which political party you support, we are all in the same boat. I do not work for the council, nor am I a councillor.

I have seen a lot of haranguing of the council on social media recently, along with comments relating to residents not paying their council tax because they resent the taxpayer footing the bill for the clear-up.

I have also seen comments relating to the travellers that are, at best, unpleasant, and at worst are downright abusive, bordering on unacceptable limits for social media.

I have seen people declare that they will be changing their political allegiance at the next elections away from the main parties in the town (Labour and Conservative) and will turn increasingly to UKIP purely on the basis of the traveller situation within the town.

The council have stated clearly on many occasions that they are taking all the legal actions that are appropriate to deal with the situation. This is not good enough for the town's residents apparently – people seem to fail to acknowledge that following the letter of the law takes time.

I agree with people that a town-wide ban on travellers pitching anywhere other than the two designated sites will be the ideal solution to the current problem.

However, what no-one seems to grasp is that this can not be a quick answer to the problem. I think that there are three questions that need answering before it is appropriate to complain:

I would like to hear from Essex County Council as to their actions on this situation. Not all the land that has been pitched on belongs to the council – and ECC have been woefully silent on the matter.

I would like to hear from the Conservative and UKIP elements on the council as to how – following the letter of the law – they would deal with this situation differently.

The Labour leader of the council has already been open with the way that Labour has and are dealing with it, but I have heard nothing from anyone else.

Our MP has been working on a petition – although I have noted that ECC are not mentioned.

I would like to hear from an independent legal representative – preferably a lawyer who deals with land issues – as to whether the council have indeed taken the best course of action on this matter.

name and address supplied

Providing more transit sites is the sensible solution

SIR In response to the criticism of councillor Waide Forman, she does not, as some have claimed on social media, welcome illegal Traveller encampments.

Instead she has proposed that more permanent transit sites should be provided. This is rather more sensible than to keep moving the Travellers on, which only delays the problem or moves it elsewhere and costs a lot in terms of policing.

Travellers are the same as any other group of people. Some of them commit crimes, some do not but all deserve the basic right which most of us take for granted – a place to live.

I do not see that Waide's work as a councillor and as chair of the Harlow TUC are in conflict. In both roles she works hard for the residents of Harlow, whether they live in a house or a caravan.

Danielle

Kingsland, Harlow

Anyone else parked on grass verges would get a ticket

SIR I would like Harlow Council to tell all the drivers who have been ticketed for illegal parking, why it is that week in week out we keep seeing more and more Travellers parked up on grass verges with cars used to tow their caravans yet not once have we ever seen a parking ticket issued to any one of these illegally parked vehicles.

If anyone else parked up on the grass on Southern Way they would come out in the morning to be met with a ticket popped under the windscreen wiper.

What is it that makes these Travellers exempt from the rules of the road?

name and address supplied

There are still many people who cannot use computers

SIR Much to my dismay I have heard it said that applications for benefit, housing, council tax etc will soon only be processed online, cutting out the often reassuring personal element.

There are still many people who cannot use computers for any number of reasons or who choose not to. Personal choice is another right which is currently being ignored.

What does this mean for the present staff in the Civic Centre? Are their jobs being sacrificed as well?

Perhaps there is someone out there who will be happy to tell me I'm wrong. I hope so.

Gill Morris
Amherst Lodge, Harlow

Is no-one responsible for enforcing parking rules?

SIR We should all read the letter from Roy Adams ("Garage tenant was refused help when blocked by car", Star, October 9) very carefully and then cast our minds back over recent months to recall the stream of letters regarding Harlow Council's attitude towards parking in the town.

Perhaps the most telling observation is the fact that despite the gravity of the comments made there has not been one response from the council.

The conclusion has to be that either nobody is in charge or whoever is should be fired.

Mr Adams' letter just about sums up the incompetence. We shouldn't be surprised the council could not help one of its own garage tenants when she was faced with anti-social parking.

It just about sums up the attitude of a council quick to collect its dues but incapable of raising the corporate or moral energy to keep its part of the bargain.

It is just another example of a rudderless parking/traffic management set-up that apparently tolerates parking on pavements, grass verges, garage bases and disabled access ramps.

A message to whoever is being paid by us to manage parking in Harlow – we need some explanations and an end to the inertia that has made many of our roads and pavements health and safety minefields.

Free bike repair for cyclist who was impaled on brake lever

A CYCLIST from Harlow who became impaled on the brake lever of her bike in a freak accident in Bishop's Stortford has had her equipment repaired for free.

Hub + Spoke, in Corner Meadow, Harlow, offered to fix the damage at no cost to Celina Jacques.

The 27-year-old was training for a 100-mile charity fundraising ride, from Bishop's Stortford to London and back, when the accident happened.

Doctors said she had come within an inch of severing her femoral artery.

"My recovery has been gradual but quicker than the doctors expected," said Celina. "It's still not fully healed muscle-wise - it has been three months and I'm still working on the strength in my leg - but certainly getting better."

The accident happened in July, just three to four minutes after setting off on a daily training ride, in Rye Street, Bishop's Stortford.

Celina, of Fifth Avenue, Harlow, panicked after realising that an oncoming vehicle was closer than she had originally thought.

Her bike clipped the curb and crashed into stinging nettles, leaving her right leg stuck underneath the bike and her left impaled on a brake lever.

Hub + Spoke had to replace the handlebars, the gear handles and the brake cables.

"I would like to thank Hub + Spoke for their generosity in fixing my bike for me, free of charge, after my accident," said Celina. "They have really helped me to be inspired enough to endeavour to get back on my bike as soon as possible."

Celina had been planning to do the charity bike ride with friend Bonnie Bell.

The challenge was in memory of relatives lost to cancer and in aid of Cancer Research UK.

Bonnie, from Rye Street, completed the ride with her husband, Martin, raising £700.

Candlelight protest urges County Hall to turn on streetlights

A CANDLELIGHT protest will be held in Harlow as part of Labour parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride's campaign against the streetlight switch off.

To coincide with British Summer Time coming to an end, Ms Stride will be organising the event on Saturday to protest against Essex County Council's decision to turn off streetlights in Harlow.

Ms Stride said: "It is shocking how many people bring up streetlights as well as other local issues.

"The candlelight vigil will be held this weekend as the clocks are going back and nights are getting darker.

"We want this to bring people together across the community and say to the Conservatives at Essex County Council 'this is not okay'. We want our streetlights turned back on."

The part-night lighting scheme started in Harlow in March this year.

The scheme, which was introduced by ECC as a money-saving initiative, means streetlights are turned off for five hours each night from 12-5am.

Streetlights in the town centre, key road junctions and roads notorious

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

for accidents have been excluded from the scheme.

A bid by Labour to switch the town's streetlights back on was rejected by County Hall in the summer.

The motion, which was put forward by Labour councillors, urged the scheme to be scrapped at least until residents were consulted and safety concerns addressed. The motion was defeated by 38 votes to 36 in July.

Ms Stride, who has been running a petition about the scheme, said: "The petition has been really successful.

"When we are campaigning on the doors, nine out of ten people we speak to bring up streetlights which is why we are holding the [candlelight] event and why we are trying to think of more ways to make residents' voices heard because people in Harlow are concerned.

"I have a lot of people tell me about their mums, dads, brothers and sisters walking in the dark after a night shift and not feeling safe.

"People have the right to feel safe. It is the Tories that have switched the lights off and we want them back on."

An Essex County Council spokesman said: "Since the roll-out began there has been no evidence suggesting that part night lighting (PNL) has had any adverse impact on crime.

"In fact, according to figures in an Essex Police report in May, there was actually a seven per cent reduction in the number of crime incidents recorded in the 30/60 day periods after the implementation of PNL compared to the 30/60 day periods before.

"Equally, we are unaware of any issues in Harlow since the programme began. We will, however, continue to respond to requests from the emergency services if there are areas which they believe should be exempt.

"We stand by our decision on PNL, which was introduced to generate savings of more than £1 million a year, as well as help significantly reduce carbon emissions."

The event will be held in Potter Street at 6.30pm on the main pathway. Residents are asked to meet the group on Potter Street by the turning to Oaklands Drive.

Adventurous half-term activities at Essex Outdoors

PARENTS looking for educational, as well as adventurous, day-long activities for children this half term, need look no further than Essex Outdoors.

Essex Outdoors is running one day multi-activity days from Monday October 27 until Friday, October 31, for children aged eight years and above for just £30 per child.

The four centres, Harlow, Danbury, Bradwell and Mersea, offer more than 30 activities and during the course of a day children will be able to experience up to four, which could include activities such as abseiling, archery, bushcraft, canoeing, climbing, high ropes, orienteering, mountain biking, sailing and zipwire.

The centres are inspected and approved by the Adventurous Activities Licensing Service (AALS).

Councillor Roger Hirst, cabinet member for libraries, communities and planning, said: "The outdoor environment inspires children to learn and test themselves in a number of differing ways including developing their confidence, self-awareness and social skills.

"This is a great opportunity for children in Essex to experience such challenging and exciting activities which are on their doorstep."

Tougher rules for landlords in bid to drive up standards

LANDLORDS will face tighter rules for houses in multiple occupation (HMO) in a bid to drive up standards.

Harlow Council agreed the changes to help reduce anti-social behaviour and improve living conditions.

Landlords will now be required to meet council-imposed rules as well as those from the government for five years, from April 1 next year.

Former council leader Mark Wilkinson welcomed the proposals.

He said: "I am sure there are landlords out there that strive to provide quality housing and I am sure responsible landlords will welcome this."

"Certainly some of the issues tonight are about the other side of the coin, sometimes there are not responsible landlords in this town and we need to address those kinds of items."

Cllr Wilkinson described the plans as a "living document", which can be changed and adapted when necessary.

Leader of the opposition Andrew Johnson said: "This item has been bouncing around the council for a couple of years. It had full support from all political parties, and continues to have full support.

"There is a situation in the town that is growing out of control, all sides of this chamber recognise that. We all want to see decent tenancies and decent occupations."

"What we are saying is that any houses that are being used for multiple occupation are doing so responsibly, safely and giving the tenants of those properties a reasonable lifestyle."

Councillors also spoke of dealing with overcrowding and improving standards.

Councillor Emma Toal said in a council surgery she had heard of 15 residents living in a three-bedroom house.

Councillor Simon Carter, who works with homeless charity Streets2Homes, said: "With my Streets2Homes hat on, houses of multiple occupation are an essential part of the town's housing supply so that we have the opportunity to get people that are rough sleeping eventually into accommodation."

Cllr Bill Pryor added: "It is nice to see cross party agreement on the policy that has been put forward."

Deadline for school place applications

PARENTS are reminded that the deadline for secondary school places for September 2015 is the end of October.

Parents and carers must apply by October 31 for a Year 7 secondary school place.

Applications can be made via the website at www.essex.gov.uk/admissions. The website also enables parents to search for school information, read Ofsted reports, check admissions criteria and submit applications.

Essex County Councillor Ray Gooding, cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said:

"Applying for the right schools for your child is an important decision and I would urge parents to use the tools available on www.essex.gov.uk/admissions to ensure they make an informed application."

"Although we are able to provide most families with their preferred school, schools can become oversubscribed so it is very important for parents to use all six preferences."

County Hall recommend that parents use all their preferences and list their local school as one of their preferences.

End to drug testing for private hire taxi drivers

PRIVATE hire taxi drivers may no longer face in-service drugs test.

At a Harlow Council cabinet meeting, councillors discussed the necessity of drivers being drugs tested; and the cost involved.

Councillor Tony Durcan told councillors that in the past five years only one person had been tested positive for drug use.

He said: "I think there was a cost of inconvenience, remember these are small businesses. As the cabinet member for regeneration and enterprise, I am very worried that businesses could be losing money as a result of a test that is not necessarily required."

"It also balances the books. There was an inequality. You can get into a private hire cab and expect them to be drug tested but if you get into a black cab you don't."

Paralympian Anne picks up honour from Princess

A HARLOW paralympian has said she was honoured to receive her MBE - but that it has not sunk in yet.

Anne Wafula-Strike, of Willowfield, was presented with her MBE by Princess Anne for her services to disability sport as well as her charity work for various good causes.

The mother-of-one, who received her award last week, said: "I felt very honoured and privileged to receive my MBE."

"It means a lot to me. It still hasn't sunk in, but all I can say is it was one of the most memorable days of my life."

Anne received her MBE award at Buckingham Palace and brought her family along for support.

"We travelled to the palace together," she said.

"There was my husband Norman, my son Tim, my sister Irene and my sponsor Sir Emeka Offor."

"I was really excited as we entered the Palace and I had to go to a separate room while my guests were seated in the ballroom."

Mrs Wafula-Strike added: "Everyone was so kind and welcoming and I waited my turn to receive my MBE from Princess Anne."

The paralympian, who started wheelchair racing in 2002, was the first ever person from east Africa to compete in the Paralympic Games in Athens in 2004.

She won three gold medals at British Disability Sports Events and made her GB debut at the 2006 Visa Paralympic World Cup.

She also won three gold medals at the DSE Championships in Manchester and was a member of the Great Britain and Northern Ireland team competing at the Assen 2006 International Paralympic Committee Athletics World Championships.

Mrs Wafula-Strike also works with various charities including AbleChild Africa, Action on Disability and Development and The British Polio Fellowship. In 2010 she launched the charity Disabled Empowerment Association, which aims to empower people with a disability through educational opportunities.

This week, Mrs Wafula-Strike joined The British Polio Fellowship to mark this year's Post Polio Syndrome (PPS) day at the House of Commons.

The event also marked the charity's 75th anniversary and was hosted by MP Andrew Love.

Guests included the Harlow resident as well as fellow paralympian James Crisp, a swimmer, and QVC presenter and author Julia Roberts.

Unionists join protest in London

A GROUP of Harlow's trade unionists joined more than 100,000 protesters in London as part of protests about pay and austerity.

The group joined the rally in Hyde Park, organised by the Trades Union Congress to demand a pay rise for public sector workers, on Saturday.

PAH's Unison branch secretary, Wanda Forman, said: "Those workers at the lower end of the income spectrum who deliver the services and create the profits are expected to resort to Foodbanks whilst those at the top stress over where their next Ferrari will be from."

TUC general secretary Francis O'Grady said: "Workers in Britain are, on average, £2,500 a year worse off than they were in 2008 and that's if we use the Government's preferred inflation measure."

Why we chose a retirement apartment in the country....

Valerie and Don McGregor are among the first residents to move into the brand new apartment scheme for over 55s, called Maynard House in Great Easton.

Downsizing to a modern apartment in the middle of the Essex countryside is probably not the move many people in their mid 70s would consider. But the McGregors are among a growing army of people who are determined to maximise their retirement and that doesn't mean settling for a stereotypical old people's home.

"Don has had Parkinsons for about 12 years, its more of an inconvenience than anything else, but our friends said why didn't we adapt our home, put in a stair lift and make other changes, but we wanted to start afresh," explained Valerie, 74, who together with Don have moved just 12 miles from their original four bedroom detached home in Bishop Stortford.

"We thought about other places but they didn't appeal as they smacked to us of old people's homes, or care homes, rather than independent living which we have here. "Within days of moving in we knew we had done the right thing."

In addition to the peace of mind of potential support close at hand in the future (Maynard House is part of Moat Park retirement village which has its own care home) the couple also chose Maynard House they said because:

- it is close enough to maintain friendships and pursuits in Bishop Stortford; it's also five minutes drive from the GP surgery and Tesco is four minutes away in the car
- they have a garden but they don't have to look after it - Maynard House is set in six acres of landscaped maintained grounds
- there's potential to make new friends and start new hobbies - as the village grows the couple say they fully expect to make fresh friendships among their new neighbours and help to instigate shared village activities.

Quick-witted Don has already been nominated 'entertainment officer' by sales consultant Linda McLean!

"This is very much the next chapter of our lives," explained Don. "It's an exciting prospect which is nice to be able to say at our stage of life."

Working together to celebrate hard work of volunteer

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A YOUNG volunteer was given a birthday surprise to reward her for her hard work.

Volunteer Alice Clayden, 18, was given a cake by charity Free Cakes for Kids, for her work at Streets2Homes.

Alice first started volunteering at Streets2Homes when she was 15 years old. She completed a week of work experience at the Wych Elm centre and has been volunteering at the charity ever since.

Streets2Homes manager Kerrie Eastman said: "Alice has been with us throughout. "She does a variety of things for us and does a lot to help with our fundraising. "She's a lovely girl and she has always been fantastic here."

As the charity, who were recently the victims of a break-in, could not afford to buy the young volunteer a cake, they looked to another good cause within the town for help.

Free Cakes for Kids was set up by 27-year-old Emily Cross, of Felmongers, Harlow.

Kerrie added: "Free Cakes for Harlow were fantastic; they made a beautiful birthday cake and lots of cupcakes with Streets2Homes logos. She was amazed as she didn't expect to receive anything. It was fantastic."

The birthday cake was baked by Essex County Councillor and Free Cakes volunteer Karen Clempner.

The cakes were delivered by Emily, who helped share round the treats to volunteers, staff and clients.

As well as the birthday surprise, Emily donated a range of toiletries to the charity

after asking friends and family to donate items Streets2Homes need in celebration of son Alex's second birthday.

"I wasn't expecting that donation at all," Kerrie said. "It was gifts that had been donated as part of his second birthday."

"It meant so much to all of us here - clients and volunteers, it was amazing. "It's always nice to receive donations and know someone values what we do."

"I was a bit overwhelmed with so much kindness for Streets2Homes to be honest."

Emily, who also donated items to the Harlow Foodbank, added: "I found out about Streets2Homes through Free Cakes and I was really impressed with everything they do. They make such a difference and it was nice to be able to help."

Either Inspector Andy Fusher, District Commander Alan Ray or one of Harlow's three sergeants will be attending each meeting.

"We will have these meetings every eight weeks," Insp Fusher said. "We are going back to face-to-face meetings with the community."

"Every police community support officer will be at a beat surgery or a street meeting once a week."

The next meeting will be held at Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club, in Bush Fair, at 7pm on November 13.

Essex Digital Awards to celebrate best of online

ENTRY to the second Essex Digital Awards is now open.

The event supported by the Star's sister paper the Essex Chronicle – which last year pulled in hundreds of entries – is the first and only awards scheme to recognise the online efforts of businesses, schools and charities from across the county.

Entry is free, takes less than two minutes and there are gold, silver and bronze prizes for each of the ten categories including 'Website', 'Use of Social Media' and 'School, Education or Charity Website' and a new accolade in 2015 to celebrate the business 'blog'.

There is also the special 'Spirit of Essex' award, which shall be presented by the judges to an individual or organisation that has shown outstanding commitment to digital innovation for the betterment of the county.

The rise in popularity of the new scheme has been underlined by backing from an impressive throng of proactive businesses including 'Headline Sponsor' Lookers Volvo Colchester.

Last month the car dealership took part in the launch of the new Volvo XC90, which was the first car in history to be sold exclusively online.

Also supporting the scheme are Great Baddow-based Search Engine Optimisation company Freelance SEO Essex as the 'Associate sponsor', Essex Chambers of Commerce who have signed up as the 'Key Supporter' and the Chronicle, who are media partner for the EDAs.

Auxiliary Global and Ding Video are also sponsors of the awards.

An impressive independent panel of judges including Chronicle Senior Editor Paul Dent-Jones, leading lights from the digital industry and people who worked at national organisations such as the BBC and Sky Sports will select seven finalists from each category after entry closes on February 20, 2015.

Iain Johnson, from Premio 64, launched the EDAs with his business partner Andy Pritchard in September 2013.

The first EDAs Winners' Evening was held in April at the Ivory Rooms in Billericay and tickets for the event sold out in less than 11 hours of going on general sale.

#EDAFinalists also trended on Twitter on the night, as prizes-winners and finalists shared their celebrations with the digital community.

Mr Johnson, from Ingatstone, a former reporter for the Brentwood Gazette, revealed why he is 'extremely encouraged' by the sensational start to the 2015 campaign.

"We are so grateful for the support we've received so far from top organisations including Lookers Volvo Colchester, Freelance SEO Essex, the Chronicle, Essex Chambers of Commerce, Auxiliary Global and Ding Video.

"Entry actually opened on September 1 and in just a couple of weeks or so we've already had 60 entries, it's so exciting."

"There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that we are going to smash last year's entry total and already, I can't wait for the next Winners' Evening."

The EDAs 2015 Winners' Evening will be held at Weston Homes Community Stadium, the home of Colchester United Football Club, on April 23, next year.

He added: "There have been so many success stories for the winners at last year's event and with the brilliant support of the Chronicle we're hoping to cast our net as wide as is possible this year, so to speak."

"There really is nothing to lose and everything to gain from entering the EDAs and we can't wait to find more first class organisations from across this wonderful county who are leading the way in digital practice."

Other categories in the EDAs 2015 include 'Use of Video for Business', 'Mobile App', 'Online Marketing Campaign', 'Online Business', 'Small Business Website' and 'Responsive Website'.

Taking part in the Essex Digital Awards is simple. You can enter up to ten categories now, for free, by visiting www.essexdigitalawards.co.uk. It takes less than two minutes to complete an entry form.

You can also follow the Essex Digital Awards on Twitter via @essexdigitalawards or facebook.com/essexdigitalawards.

Pledge issued to help former employees of Churchgate Hotel achieve redundancy

THE administrators of Swallow Hotels Limited – owners of the Churchgate Hotel in Old Harlow – have pledged to do all they can to help workers achieve redundancy payments.

The pledge follows a meeting between Harlow MP Robert Halfon and administrators Deloitte on Thursday.

The hotel in Churchgate Street closed last month leaving some employees without a job and without a place to live.

Mr Halfon had previously met with the chairman of Deloitte David Cruickshank at the Conservative Party Conference in Birmingham earlier this month.

On Thursday, Mr Halfon said: "I had a further meeting today with a senior partner [Nick Edwards] for over an hour to discuss what had happened."

"Clearly the company who owned the hotel was in serious financial trouble and had been in administration for over five years."

Mr Halfon was told that the hotel had made a loss of £600,000 in the past few years.

He added: "The company that was running the hotel was wound up with a court order two days after its closure."

"Mr Edwards apologised to me for the confusion and unease felt by hard working and loyal staff in terms of the consultation about what was going to happen."

"He also said that they would review their decision about why they had not let me, as MP, sit with the employees during the announcement of redundancy terms."

"Deloitte also has pledged to me that they will do everything to help workers achieve proper salary and redundancy payments."

"I would urge any employee who is continuing to have problems to get in contact with me."

After the hotel closed, Ian Ward, 44, who has worked at the hotel for five years and lived on the premises for four, said some members of staff had nowhere to go.

Mr Ward added: "Some employees have worked here 20 years."

"A lot of us now have no work and nowhere to live right now."

Halfon presses Home Secretary over Travellers

GEMMA GARDNER

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WILLIAM Hague has promised to raise the issue of illegal Traveller encampments in Harlow with the Home Secretary after MP Robert Halfon raised the issue in the House of Commons.

Mr Halfon said in Parliament on Thursday: "May we have an urgent debate and a statement about the application of existing laws on illegal Traveller encampments?"

"Harlow has been under siege with illegal encampments all over the town during the past year resulting in clean-up costs to Harlow taxpayers of £41,000.

"More than 1,700 residents have signed my petition calling for action. Will my right honourable friend urge the Home Secretary to contact the Chief Constable of Essex and ask for a zero-tolerance approach to help to put an end to this intolerable situation?"

Mr Hague, leader of the House of Commons, said: "This is a serious issue, and not only in my honourable friend's constituency.

"Operational decisions on the use of police powers are, of course, a matter for chief constables, as must be the case, but I will bring the issues he raises to the attention of my right honourable friend the Home Secretary. "My honourable friend and others might also want to send representations to the Department for Communities and Local Government because it is consulting on a series of changes to planning policy for Traveller sites, including with regard to unauthorised development."

Mr Halfon said after: "Harlow has been under siege for the last year and as I am, residents are angry as we believe that more could be done by authorities.

"That is why I am continuing to press this issue in Parliament, and have got a commitment from William Hague to speak to the Home Secretary about this issue. So far 1,700 Harlow residents have signed my petition. As soon as it reaches 3,000 I will be presenting it

Leader of Harlow Council, Jon Clempner said people in Harlow were "very angry" about the illegal encampments.

"We share their frustrations," he said.

"The council is calling on the government to review the powers available to councils to deal with unlawful/unauthorised encampments and that pressure is put on other areas to provide authorised traveller sites."

Slimmer reaches competition semi-final

LOOKING GOOD: Alex McCourt, above, with Will Mellor, inset, Alex before

A SUPER slimmer from Harlow who has shed almost eight stone was congratulated by TV actor Will Mellor after reaching the semi-finals of a national weight-loss competition.

Alex McCourt's achievement earned her a place as one of 45 women from across the UK and Ireland who made the finals of Slimming World's Woman of the Year 2014 competition.

She joined the Harlow Slimming World group in June of last year when she tipped the scales at 20st 12lbs.

"I can remember the first time I walked into the group like it was yesterday," she said. "I felt so self-conscious and was extremely nervous but everyone was really welcoming though and I soon made friends.

"Now I look forward to seeing everyone and how they've got on. We swap recipes and advice and it's a lot of fun."

Alex now weighs just over 13st and earlier this year her transformation inspired members of the group to vote her as their representative in the annual Woman of the Year competition.

After winning the regional heat, she secured a place in the national semi-final, which put her in the running to win the overall title of Slimming World Woman of the Year 2014.

However, she narrowly missed out on a place in the top 10.

New look for builder Bob

FANS of popular TV character Bob the Builder are in for a surprise when he returns for a new series next year.

The makers of the programme have given the friendly workman a computer-generated makeover.

The new Bob is slimmer and taller and now wears fashionable slim-fit jeans and a short sleeve checked shirt instead of his old denim dungarees.

Bob, whose catchphrase is "Can we fix it, yes we can", has also been given a new home Spring City and will use a computer for his building designs.

A spokesman for the programme makers said: "While the new series retains the emotional warmth that has always given Bob The Builder a firm place in the hearts of young viewers, it's now packed with more humour than ever before."

The series, which was first shown on CBBC and later Nick Jr, will now be broadcast under Channel 5's 'Milkshake' banner.

Epilepsy campaigner joins awareness day

AN epilepsy campaigner, whose sister died of the condition, has welcomed the launch of an epilepsy group's new awareness day.

Nicki Walker, 47, of Longbanks, has been raising funds for research into sudden unexpected death in epilepsy (SUDEP) through the charity SUDEP Action since her sister's death.

Tania Knight, Nicki's sister, died in 2003 at the age of 37.

The awareness day, which is today (Thursday, October 23) is part of the charity's Call for Openness campaign.

Nicki said: "I was not aware that SUDEP existed so I am delighted that the charity has launched their awareness day."

"It is important that people with epilepsy are well informed about the risks associated with the condition and what they can do to stay safe."

The Call for Openness campaign encourages people with epilepsy to be open about their condition, report seizures accurately and to take their medications regularly and as prescribed.

The campaign also urges doctors and nurses to talk about risk, including the risk of SUDEP, on or soon after diagnosis.

Karen Osland, acting chief executive for SUDEP Action, said: "Most people with epilepsy will live long and healthy lives, but we feel it is important that those who are at risk, however small that risk may be, are given the opportunity to make the right lifestyle choices."

"There are positive steps that can be taken to reduce risk and it can be empowering for people to be involved in managing what is known to be a difficult condition."

CCTV released of man in connection with theft

POLICE investigating the theft of a leather jacket have released CCTV images of a man they would like to identify, pictured right.

The jacket, worth £169.99, was stolen on Friday, July 11, at around 2pm from the TK Maxx store in the Water Gardens.

Anyone with information is asked to contact PC Michael Ornellas at Harlow Police station on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 or through their anonymous online form at www.crimestoppers-uk.org.

Primary school to double in size to meet demand

THE headteacher of Holy Cross Catholic Primary Academy says plans to expand the school will help fulfil a need for primary school places in the community.

Sue McGuigan explained that the school would be working hard to retain its "family feeling" as it expands to accommodate seven additional classrooms and a group classroom, which will cater for an additional 210 pupils.

Two other schools, Longwood Primary and The Downs Primary, are also looking to expand in a bid to fulfil the growing need for places in Harlow.

"There is a real shortage of [primary school] spaces in Harlow," Ms McGuigan said.

"Here at Holy Cross, we are oversubscribed year on year for the past six years."

Chair of Governors Nigel Long said: "By providing more places for Catholic children, we are also freeing places in other schools to take on non-faith children."

Live birth data from Essex County Council and baptism data from the diocese was used to see if there was a need to provide additional spaces and justify expansion of the Traceys Road school.

Ms McGuigan explained: "With the expansion, we will be able to offer more places to those who require it. It will mean we will not have such very long waiting lists."

"We have always prided ourselves on knowing the children well, and being a small, family, community-led school."

"We won't lose that with the expansion; the governors, staff and I are committed to ensuring we do not lose that. We are still going to be a family school."

Both Mr Long and Ms McGuigan said the majority of parents were thrilled about the plans. Building has already started on site and the expansion should be finished by the end of July 2015, ready for the new school year.

The school, which recently introduced a second reception and Year 1 class, will have a second class for Years 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Certain issues like parking were given special consideration by the school.

Ms McGuigan said: "Parking was always a concern. Prior to planning we drew up a detailed travel plan which highlighted ways we could alleviate problems that may arise from parking."

"We recently had an external car park built on diocesan land which the school and church use."

"We also negotiated with Harlow Council for parents to be able to park in Nicholls Field which is a five minute walk through a cycle path."

"We have organised a walking bus to and from Nicholls Field for the children to get to school safely which has had a lot of support from parents."

She added: "The children are very excited about the future. We all are."

LIKE most women I like to shop. And while I could quite happily spend my Saturdays weaving in and out of the shops at Lakeside or Westfield, in these belt-tightening times I do not have the funds to sustain such a cash-consuming habit.

So while we would all love a wardrobe to rival Cara Delevingne's, the reality is that for most of us spending our weekend spending is just not possible when we're trying to keep control over the purse strings.

Which is why recently I found myself faced with a dilemma. Over the past year I've lost a considerable amount of weight (think two stone and three dress sizes). And while that is not a bad problem to have, when it came to choosing what to wear each morning I was faced with a rail of clothes that were now all too big.

Most women will find their weight will fluctuate over the years, with jeans that fit perfectly last month now a bit of a squeeze or tops that once pulled in all the wrong places suddenly gaping at the seams. But I was seriously in danger of looking like a small child playing dress up in her mother's closet - certainly not a good look when I'm expected to be smart and presentable for my job. Just punching a few extra holes in my belt was definitely not going to cut it!

So what do you do when faced with replacing your entire wardrobe in one go and on a budget already stretched tighter than Lycra over Kim Kardashian's perfectly pert derrière?

In the past I had bought the odd dress or skirt on eBay. And one friend who had dramatically changed shape while training for her second London Marathon kindly came to my rescue with a bundle of fabulous clothes that no longer fit.

Before this the idea of wearing anything secondhand had never really crossed my mind. Suddenly the thought of giving those dresses, blouses, trousers and skirts that were too loose or too tight a new lease of life by passing them on seemed a really good one. Certainly better than leaving them to hang unloved and unworn at the back of a wardrobe.

But where else to find affordable fashion? Before working at the hospice I had never stepped foot inside a charity shop. Despite the current trend for all things vintage, I suppose I never believed there would be anything in there to interest me. And the thought of spending hours rummaging through the rails in the vain hope of discovering a genuine vintage gem seemed like far too much hard work.

And anyway, charity shops are just full of Auntie Mildred's musty old cast-offs, right? Surely there would be nothing in there to interest anyone my age?

St Clare has seven shops across the Hospice's catchment area of West Essex and East Herts border and it is about to open its eighth in Loughton. Whenever I have had to visit them for work they are always bustling with people of all ages looking for a bargain.

My month spent as a dedicated follower of (charity shop) fashion

When St Clare Hospice communications and marketing manager Eleanor Scotchbrook found herself in need of a new wardrobe, she set herself a challenge to find a different piece of clothing or an accessory that had been donated to its charity shops and which she could wear during the 31 days of August. The results surprised her . . . and they may surprise you, too.

Our Harlow shop, just behind The Range off Edinburgh Way, quite often has a queue of shoppers waiting for the doors to open, while tickets for our special preview evenings at our Epping outlet and Scarlet designer shop in Buckhurst Hill sell out within days.

So had I been missing a trick? Was I too quick to dismiss charity shopping as a potential source of wonderful and affordable fashion, a place where I could find good quality clothing at a more purse-friendly price? Because to be honest, once it's been through the washing machine who can really tell where you've bought it?

A big part of my job is to raise awareness of the services St Clare provides to people who have a life-limiting illness and their families. All of our services are free of charge to those who need them but not everyone realises that we are a charity and only 30 per cent of our £3.2million annual running costs are funded by the NHS.

That means that for every £1 we spend on providing the very best end of life care and emotional and my own sartorial slump. Could I find something to wear every day for the month of August that had been donated to the hospice?

I have to confess that when I first mooted the idea to my manager it did cross my mind that an entire month may have been a bit ambitious. In no way do I consider myself to be a trendsetter or particularly fashion forward. In fact I'd say my style is fairly conservative, but I do know what suits me and my body shape. And I wanted the challenge to be as authentic as possible, which meant finding clothing and accessories that I would genuinely pick off the shelf and buy from any other high street shop.

So one afternoon I took myself off to the shop in Dunmow. If I had been doubtful at first that I would find enough things to last for a week let alone a month I really needn't have worried. I left that shop with an armful of things (a brand new Topshop skirt still with the tags for £6 being just one of many highlights).

Subsequent trips to our shops in Saffron Walden, Epping, Debden and Buckhurst Hill proved just as fruitful and in the end I ended up with more items than days in August to wear them all. Some of my favourites included a pair of Kurt Geiger studded sandals for £15, a Levi denim jacket (also £15), a new with tags River Island dress for £7 and a vintage Longchamp leather bag.

So as August 1 approached, I couldn't wait to start my #secondhandstyle challenge and show off some of the amazing things I had found, posting selfie-style photos each day on Twitter and Instagram and a weekly wardrobe round-up on St Clare's Facebook page.

On the first day I wore a striped summer dress I'd picked up for £6 from the Epping shop and had barely got through the hospice doors when someone commented on how nice it was. When I explained that it was from one of our shops she was genuinely taken aback.

That actual dress was later passed onto a friend who took it to wear on holiday in Mexico. Similarly, someone else offered to buy off me a faux leather bomber jacket that I'd found in Saffron Walden after seeing my selfie on Facebook.

As the month unfolded I was surprised and delighted by the response to my challenge and it was wonderful to watch attitudes changing towards charity shopping, much like my own had.

From hospice supporters on Facebook to the girls in my bootcamp class, people genuinely couldn't believe what I had managed to find. I was also thrilled to get a 'like' all the way from America when I wore a Mad Men-style St Michael's pleated skirt which I had seen in Debden and bought for £4 because it reminded me of my Nan who used to work at Marks & Spencer. Probably at least 20 years old, I paired it with a simple black vest and smart black heels, bringing it bang up to date.

In addition to all the lovely comments and compliments about my outfits, it was also wonderful to hear people say the challenge had inspired them to check out the St Clare shops to see what they could find.

My #secondhandstyle challenge has been a truly eye-opening experience. It has shown me how much fun you can have with pre-loved fashion, and, with a bit of imagination, how you can give something once consigned to the bottom of a drawer a new lease of life.

Wear it with something already in your wardrobe and people will honestly never guess it was once owned by someone else. The fact you're also supporting a local charity providing such incredible care to people in your community while saving yourself a few quid, not to mention helping to save the planet by avoiding sending unwanted textiles to landfill, is even more satisfying.

I'll see you in the queue at the till!

Fasten your seatbelts for turbulent evening of laughter and fun

AUDIENCE Keen for some light relief in the form of a farcical comedy are in for a treat as Boeing Boeing lands at Victoria Hall.

The comedy is set in the 1960s, originally written by French playwright Marc Camoletti, and follows bachelor Bernard, who is living the perfect life and is engaged to three stewardesses - all of whom are oblivious to each other.

But Bernard's life hits some turbulence when friend Robert comes to stay and all three stewardesses are in town. Robert starts to forget which lies to tell whom and chaos - as every good farce should have - ensues.

Director Sharon Wilson, who has directed several productions at the Old Harlow theatre including The 39 Steps, first saw a revival of the show 15 years ago.

"I literally cried with laughter," she said. "It's a show that's stayed with me all that time and I'd like to think we can recreate an experience of that kind for our audiences."

"We have such comic talent within the Harlow Theatre Company and yet farce hasn't been part of our programme for some time."

Harlow Theatre Company will be using a version of Boeing Boeing republished in 2012, providing a few updates to the first English adaptation although the performances will stay true to the original's 1960s setting.

Sharon added: "I'm very excited about it and confident our audiences will love it. While I've directed comedic plays before like The 39 Steps and God of Carnage, farce is completely different. That's been the challenge and the fun for me.

"The comedy doesn't necessarily come from just the words the actors are saying, but also from the ridiculous situations and relationships between them."

The cast of six includes HTC stalwart Alan Grant who plays Bernard, Jim Thompson, who plays Robert and Caroline Petherbridge as Bertha the maid.

The air hostesses are played by Jane Pragnall (Gretchen the German stewardess), Sarah Randall (Gloria the American hostess) and Alyssa Upton (Gabriella the Italian hostess).

"Farce is about chaos and confusion and we've certainly experienced some of that in rehearsals," Sharon said.

"The cast are fantastic, completely dedicated and having lots of fun with their characters and the absurdity between them all."

She added: "At the risk of speaking in clichés, I would say that audiences should prepare to fasten their seatbelts for a turbulent evening of laughter, silliness and fun."

>> Boeing Boeing will be at Victoria Hall from Wednesday, October 29-Saturday, November 1 with performances starting at 8pm. Tickets are £11 (£9 concessions) and can be bought online at www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany.

Jozeff heads to Europe for his biggest gig to date

A YOUNG music producer and DJ will be playing one of his biggest gigs to date in Amsterdam for New Year's Eve.

Joe Rogers, of Joyners Field, who is better known as Jozeff, (pronounced Jo-Zeff) started off as a bass and garage MC when he was around 15 years old.

"One of my biggest gigs would be an Ibiza pool party back in August, sun on my face, shades on and playing whilst looking over the sea bay, was amazing."

"My next big gig is in Amsterdam for

New Year's Eve, I can't wait for that."

And the 23-year-old does not plan on stopping. Jozeff currently has five singles out on iTunes, and is preparing to release several more.

"They all seem to be doing great. I have a few new singles coming out within the next couple of months, one of which is being released under Plus Recordings which is a record label run by Mark Radford, who is from Harlow."

"Another features a singer called Lindsey May who is also from Harlow. It's called Dark Nights and will be coming out very soon."

Jozeff, who will be playing at Egg LDN on Halloween for Source Music, added: "I also release a monthly mix called 'Deep Into House' which gets uploaded to soundcloud, mix cloud and iTunes podcast."

Songs available on iTunes includes Part of Me and Ordinary Things. To listen visit www.soundcloud.com/Jozeff-Music.

A WALK in the seasonal colours of autumn is good for our wellbeing, according to new research by the National Trust.

Indeed, now is the time for considering what we might want to plant to give us a blaze of autumn colour in future years, whether it's Japanese maples or other shrubs and trees which produce stunning burnt orange, red and burgundy hues as well as vibrant berries.

Here are some places in and around Essex you may find inspiration this autumn:

Harlow Town Park

Designed by Dame Sylvia Crowe and opened in 1957, the Town Park covers 164 acres and includes water features, gardens and Pets' Corner

Hatfield Forest near Bishop's Stortford

Hatfield Forest provides the perfect opportunity for visitors to enjoy scenic walks in traditional woodland that is home to more than 3,500 different species. Popular are the tree and forest walks which will see you around in just under two hours each.

Danbury Country Park Woodhill Road, Danbury

Better known locally as Danbury Lakes, this scenic spot in the grounds of Danbury Palace is a popular place for walkers and picnickers.

Thorndon Country Parks, Brentwood

This extensive country park contains a diverse range of habitats and is split into north and south areas. In the north park is woodland which with the leaves turning colour will be perfect for an autumn walk. Also here you'll find the Gruffalo Trail, a short walk the kids

Getting inspiration from the colours of autumn

will love where they have to locate the characters from Julia Donaldson's ever-popular storybook. The south part of the park has open parkland so is great for family days out, games and kite-flying.

Hylands Park London Road, Chelmsford

There are more than 574 acres of parkland at Hylands which include ancient woodland, grassland, ponds, lakes, beautiful formal gardens and the Adventure Castle playground. Conker collecting is a must here and there are plenty of walking routes around the estate which you'll find on the Hylands website.

Great Notley Country Park, Great Notley

Between Great Leighs and Braintree, Great Notley Country Park features 100 acres of open space managed for the benefit of wildlife but with plenty of attractions for visitors. Formerly farmland, it is now a mixture of wetland, open grassland and wooded areas with paths connecting them all and a visitors centre with cafe.

Belfairs Woodland Centre Eastwood Road North, Leigh on Sea

Much of the site's woodland is officially 'ancient woodland' some is more than 1,000 years old, making it the earliest woodland recorded in Essex. They are home to a number of historic landscape features and a wide variety of flora and fauna, including several nationally-threatened species. The Dormouse, Heath Fritillary butterfly and Song Thrush are key species here, as is the unusual Wild Service tree - an important indicator of ancient woodland.

High Woods Country Park Turner Road, Colchester

The Country Park offers ample woodland, a lake and wildflower meadows for visitors to enjoy all year round. Marshy areas, hayfields and scrubland ensure the right habitat is in place for thousands of different birds and mammals. The park has held the prestigious Green Flag Award, recognising and rewarding the best green spaces in the country. High Woods Country Park, one of Colchester's beauty spots, can be enjoyed by walkers, cyclists and families alike.

Things to do in the garden

- :: Finish picking maincrop apples like Spartan and Sunset
- :: Check greenhouse heating and insulate to save heat
- :: Make sure bowls of bulbs being forced for indoor flowering do not dry out
- :: Make your own leaf mould, bagging up fallen leaves into black polythene bags with a few holes in them for air
- :: Protect tender plants by covering crowns with straw or wrapping horticultural fleece around them
- :: Clean bird feeders with a stiff brush and top them up during the cooler months
- :: Continue mulching bare ground and beds with compost or other organic matter
- :: Lift and divide perennials including clumps of crocosmias, replanting them in soil with added organic matter
- :: Lift and store dahlias in wooden trays in a cool, frost-free place
- :: Pick the last of the runner beans

How Hugh's seen the light after health scare

A FEW years ago, Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall was startled to learn he had high cholesterol. A lover of home-grown veg, who has always eaten salads and fruit, the 49-year-old admits the diagnosis took him by surprise.

"I thought I was basically very healthy," he says. "I felt more or less pretty good most of the time, but then I stopped and thought I do slap the butter on a bit too much on my toast and if the cheese is out at the end of a meal and I've got a glass of wine on the go, I do go back for a bit more."

Although both toast and cheese are admittedly pleasant, the TV chef and food writer - who lives in Devon with his wife Marie and their four children - has been conscientiously shifting towards recipes that don't rely on wheat and dairy. He has

recipe of the week

CREAMY ROASTED TOMATO SOUP (serves 4)

1.2kg tomatoes (the riper the better)
4-5 garlic cloves, chopped
3tbsp rapeseed or sunflower oil
75g cashew nuts, plus a few extra, to finish (optional)
200ml light vegetable stock or water
Pinch of sugar (optional)
Sea salt and freshly ground black pepper

To finish:

Extra virgin hempseed or rapeseed oil
A dusting of paprika (optional)

Preheat the oven to 180C/gas mark 4. Cut the tomatoes in half and put them in a large roasting tray (they should fit fairly snugly). Scatter over the chopped garlic, trickle over the oil and season generously with salt and pepper. Roast for 25 minutes, then scatter the cashews over the tomatoes. Return to the oven for a further 20 minutes until the tomatoes are soft and pulpy and perhaps a little charred in places.

Scrape the tomatoes, cashews and all the garlicky pan juices into a blender. Add the stock or water and blitz to a puree. Pass this through a sieve which will remove any pits or stubborn bits of tomato skin.

When you're ready to serve, reheat gently. You can add a little water if the soup seems very thick or the flavour is too intense. Season with more salt and pepper if needed and add a pinch of sugar if you think the tomatoey acidity needs tempering slightly.

Ladle into warmed bowls and finish with a swirl of extra virgin oil, plus a few chopped cashews and a dusting of paprika if you like, and a generous sprinkling of pepper.

written up his findings in his new book, River Cottage Light & Easy.

These days he eats dairy and wheat but doesn't rely on them as "go to" ingredients, although he does make some exceptions...

"When my wife has made a fantastic sourdough loaf or I go round to some friends and they've baked a lovely cake, that's when I'm going to go. Of course I'm going to have some of that," he says.

At home both he and his wife share the dinner duties, but when Marie's at the cooking coalface, Hugh knows to make himself scarce.

"If my wife's cooking it's probably best to let her get on with it because I do have a terrible tendency to butt in and interfere," he admits. "Even if I'm looking at her while she's cooking, she can find that a bit annoying, so I'll go and do some gardening."

The family are often treated to home-cooked meals prepared by the eldest children too, something which clearly fills the chef with pride.

"I've got much better at making a bit of room, not just for my wife but for my elder kids Chloe, who's 18, and Oscar, who's 15," he explains. "They're both keen cooks and are more than capable of putting together a family meal. So sometimes we can both take an evening off, relax in the garden and take the dog for a walk, and come back and find a pretty delicious supper on the table.

"I do think that all kids have a natural curiosity about food and a natural inclination to get involved in the kitchen," he says.

He concedes that involving the kids isn't easy for everyone, especially with time and space constraints, but adds: "If you nurture that curiosity and give a little bit of independence in the kitchen, you do them the most fantastic life service."

Freddy, 11, and four-year-old Louisa are too young to be whipping up meals like their older siblings, but Hugh, who also cooked from a young age, is keen that "whatever trials and tribulations lie ahead, all his children leave home knowing how to cook for themselves.

"It's not just about your health," he says, "it's about your wellbeing and sense of self respect. I think that counts for a huge amount. It's [that sense of] 'I can cook for myself, I can look after myself.'"

FURY (15, 134 mins)

Brutal, mud-spattered final weeks of the war

AT a critical juncture in David Ayer's wartime thriller, Brad Pitt's grizzled tank commander turns to an inexperienced new recruit and sounds the death knell on morality and diplomacy in a time of conflict.

"Ideals are peaceful, history's violent," he growls with an icy glare.

Those words resonate throughout Fury, a brutal, mud-spattered tour of duty during the final weeks of the Second World War, as seen through the gun sights of an M4 Sherman tank crew on a collision course with Hitler's troops.

The film opens with Pitt's inspirational leader stabbing an unsuspecting German officer in the eye and Ayer repeatedly sates a thirst for close-up gore with expertly choreographed battle sequences and hand-to-hand combat between ground troops.

The bloodbath temporarily abates for brotherly banter inside the claustrophobic tank, but the air is always chokingly thick with impending doom.

Eight weeks after he enrolls in the US Army as a clerk typist, Norman Ellison (Logan Lerman) is assigned the position of assistant driver in a tank christened Fury under the command of Sergeant Don 'Wardaddy' Collier (Brad Pitt).

This battle-weary veteran began the war in Africa and moved to Europe, killing numerous Germans along the way in the name of freedom.

Aided by the rest of his crew, Boyd Swan (Shia LaBeouf), Trini Garcia (Michael Pena) and Grady Travis (Jon Bernthal), Collier gives Norman an initiation he will never forget on a series of missions led by Captain Waggoner (Jason Isaacs) and Lieutenant Parker (Xavier Samuel).

Three other tanks commanded by Sergeant Binkowski (Jim Parrack), Sergeant Davis (Brad William Henke) and Sergeant Peterson (Kevin Vance) flank Fury as US soldiers push on towards Berlin.

"It will end soon," Collier assures Norman, "but before it does, a lot more people gotta die."

Fury paints a familiar picture of the hell of war, directed with testosterone-fuelled swagger by Ayer, who previously helmed the bombastic police thrillers End Of Day and Sabotage.

His script is studded with polished dialogue that doesn't quite ring true, like when Collier berates thuggish Grady, "You're an animal. All you understand is fist and boot."

Or when Collier encourages Norman to sow his seeds with a pretty young German (Alicia von Rittberg) by purring, "She's a good clean girl. If you don't take her into that bedroom, I will".

Pitt leads the cast with a strong performance as a battle-weary commander, who holds back a tide of anguish and uncertainty until he is alone and can allow the sobs to shake his scarred body.

Lerman is equally compelling as a naive whelp, who develops a taste for killing Nazis.

Ayer obliges him with an astronomical body count and foreign fields slathered as far as the eye can see in mud, freshly spilt blood and the bodies of the fallen.

THE BOOK OF LIFE (U, 95 mins)

IN Mexican culture, Dia de los Muertos or Day Of The Dead is an important annual gathering for families and friends to honour the memory of loved ones who are no longer with them.

The three-day celebration, which begins on October 31, traditionally involves adorning graves and specially constructed altars with sugar skulls, flowers and other gifts with special significance to the departed.

This fiesta of remembrance provides a vibrant and poignant backdrop to Jorge R Gutierrez's fantastical computer-animated fable about three friends, who discover there is love after death.

The Book Of Life dazzles our eyes, especially in 3D, cramming as much retina-searing colour and detail as possible into each frame.

Co-writer Douglas Lansdale adds plentiful humour to offset the film's air of tragedy including a chorus of singing nuns and a waspish grandmother, voiced by Grey Delisle, who scene-steals with every purse-lipped outburst.

Museum tour guide Mary Beth (voiced by Christina Applegate) leads a group of unruly schoolchildren through an exhibition about Mexican folklore.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

INTERNAL plantation shutters seem to be everywhere I look at the moment. Design magazines and home improvement TV programmes are inundated with them and it seems our appreciation of this 'new look' for our windows shows no signs of diminishing.

Curtains and blinds are taking a back seat as this emerging trend suits a more simplistic and clinical approach to interior design. I'm as guilty as the next person of a penchant for this modern alternative and recently spent a ridiculously disproportionate amount of time deciding on window dressing for a small bathroom.

I wanted shutters but my other half unnerved me with suggestions of wood and moisture not working in harmony and tried to persuade me we'd be looking at warped, mould-ridden panels in no time instead of the sleek, contemporary look I was after.

I got three estimates and each company said the same. Shutters are perfectly fine in a bathroom or even a wet room as long as you opt for the correct ones.

Shutters can be solid panel or louvered. The solid ones are easier to wipe free of splashes but exclude natural light when closed. Louvered shutters with a solid panel at the base of each window allow for natural light and ventilation at the top. You can now also get vinyl shutters which are resistant to both water and steam.

If you're thinking of installing them, the aesthetics aren't the only plus point. Shutters allow the ventilation to keep a room cool during high temperatures but increase thermal insulation of windows and are becoming standard specification for 'green' homes where energy efficiency is a priority.

They are more hygienic than traditional curtains or fabric blinds, too, with their simple wipe-clean maintenance and shouldn't require repainting or repairing.

"With You All The Way"

Many estate agencies simply act as a broking service that matches people to property. However, we are acutely aware that there is far more to successful selling than this alone. Indeed, over 30% of property sales in this country fail to reach completion, falling through for various reasons.

One of the main reasons is that a buyer simply gets cold feet and withdraws as a result of "buyer remorse". This is a familiar phenomenon to estate agents and occurs when a buyer feels overwhelmed by the apparent enormity of the decision to buy and takes the more comfortable "low-risk" option and does nothing.

Perhaps the buyer is offered another property which they prefer, or something else comes on the market that makes the price they have offered on your home look expensive.

Your buyer may lose their job, or get a promotion. They might decide to get married or divorced; they might inherit or win a fortune, or their business may be experiencing difficulties. They could even die!

Whilst these types of issues are generally unavoidable and naturally have a profound effect on people's decision to move, the main problem concerns timing. Because offers in this country are not binding until exchange of contracts, the longer the time between offer and exchange, the greater the opportunity there is for the buyer or seller to decide to withdraw.

We go to great lengths to help you move and seek to become very familiar with your circumstances and plans. Our agent will usually be the same person who negotiates for you and who will be thoroughly involved in any linked transactions. We find our clients appreciate the level of personal dedication and accountability provided by a single point of contact, which in turn leads to understanding, trust, and a speedy conclusion.

Just another reason why all our clients have peace of mind when instructing the Howick Brooker Partnership when selling their home.

■ IAIN DOOLEY

AT the risk of stating the obvious, the main focus here is the addition of two extra doors.

Granted, the Countryman might also be a genuine five-door car, but Mini's take on this apparent duplication is that the Countryman is an SUV, albeit a small one, making it an unfair comparison.

So what we have here is a slightly longer Mini hatch boasting more cabin and boot space plus the added flexibility to attract families and active types seeking a more practical Mini hatch

Looks and image

You'll have to look closely to really spot the changes in the transition from three to five doors. The extra length is modest (72mm between the wheels) and it does little to harm the look of this third-gen car's already expanded dimensions.

Inside this five-door model is the now familiar new-look Mini fascia complete with oversize central display, tweaked minor controls, the inclusion of a BMW-style i-Drive controller and

Fact File

Mini Cooper S
5-door

£19,255

ENGINE: 2-litre petrol unit producing 191bhp
TRANSMISSION: 6-speed automatic driving front wheels
PERFORMANCE: Top speed 144mph, 0-62 in 6.9s
ECONOMY: 49.6mpg (combined)
CO<sup>2</sup> RATING: 136g/km chunky steering wheel.

The result is a car that retains the trademark BMW era Mini look but also boasts a more mature, grown-up feel.

Space and practicality

There's no question this expanded Mini will be a welcome sight for anyone with a small family looking to remain faithful to the brand.

The car's rear doors aren't the largest and access could be more accommodating, but once inside there's reasonable legroom even for adults.

The car's boot also receives a welcome boost, as along with the flexible boot floor and additional storage, folding the rear seats liberates a decent amount of space.

Behind the wheel

Despite the expanded dimensions of the five-door car, it remains loyal to the fun ethos of the three-door model.

On the move the extra length and weight barely registers, which means you can still throw the car around if so inclined.

At launch, the choice between

Cooper S petrol and Cooper SD diesel means the difference between a feisty, rev-happy experience and a more relaxed but no less potent one, respectively.

Both 2.0-litre four-cylinder units, they can also be had with BMW's six-speed dual clutch transmissions if you don't fancy the extra workout associated with the manual shifters.

Factor in a switchable eco-normal-sport mode plus optional electronic sports damping and you don't need to sacrifice a thing in the pursuit of a performance Mini driving experience despite the car's increased focus on practicality.

Value for money

The Mini is an unusual proposition in that it's often hard to make direct comparisons with so say rival cars.

In basic trim the car benefits from a few options, although these can prove surprisingly good value.

Likewise engine choice, as BMW's efforts to reduce consumption and emissions have resulted in some seriously tax-friendly numbers.

Plus, spec your car well and you won't lose your shirt when it's time to sell it on.

Who would buy one?

Continuing the Mini's classless approach to motoring, company executives routinely state that there's no one definitive buyer profile.

That said, it's pretty obvious that the five-door hatch will likely appeal to buyers seeking a little more space for a growing family.

And if you just want some added versatility this model is probably a smarter choice than the larger Countryman, especially if the whole SUV culture isn't your thing.

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

The effect of the Order will be to divert a part length of

- Footpath 111 starting from Chippingfield in a generally north easterly direction to an alternative route around the proposed cricket clubhouse being 2 metres in width
- Footpath 135 starting from where it crosses the cricket ground in a generally north easterly direction to an alternative route around the southern side of the cricket square as currently walked being 2 metres in width

The Harlow Athletic Club member won all three of his events in North London, when up against athletes from across Great Britain.

The competition comprised of athletes aged from school years three to seven.

There were strong personal bests (PBs) and fantastic medal places. Regan produced PBs in all three events in which he competed in.

LEAP OF FAITH: Regan Lawrence (10) gets his gold medal from Great Britain hurdler and European Junior Championships 2013 gold medallist Hayley McLean

In the 60m sprint he clocked 8.5sec. In the 60m hurdles he recorded 10.8sec and in the 200m sprint he clocked 29.8sec.

McLean, who competed in the 2013 European Junior Championships where she clinched gold in the 400m hurdles, then presented Regan with one of his gold medals.

Regan's Harlow AC coach, Vince Law, also the Essex county U17 boys manager, said: "We are now beginning to witness many of our young athletes in the mix up there, winning many national events, with fantastic results, hoping to one day, follow the footsteps of their club role models: Andrew Osagie and Richard Chiassaro."

"These excellent achievements are now spreading across all age groups in the club and the hard work of our highly committed HAC coaches, the athletes themselves and their parents are paying off."

Major boosts for Harlow athletics starlet Harryman

RISING young Harlow athlete Naomi Harryman is on the mend after injury and has received two major boosts to her progression.

The 16-year-old heptathlete, a member of Harlow Athletic Club, is now in winter training and her recent injuries are improving.

Harryman, pictured, who recently moved on from Harlow's St Mark's School to begin studying her A-levels at Bishop's Stortford High School, has been nominated by British Athletics to be part of the Advanced Apprenticeship in sporting excellence programme.

On the top-ranked athletes in the country are able to attend and must be able to perform at the highest level.

Harryman qualified because her highest UK rankings at the end of the season were second in heptathlon and indoor pentathlon, fourth in long jump – with a wind assisted jump ranking her second – seventh in high jump and 22nd in triple jump.

As an elite athlete, the apprenticeship will give Harryman training and essential workshops about anti-doping, nutrition and psychology as well as educational qualifications.

On top of that, Harryman has earned an Active Essex Inspired Athlete award.

This means the teenager has gained valuable funding as well taking on sports ambassador duties in local schools.

This will be awarded in December at Colchester United FC's ground. Her Harlow AC team-mate Richard Chiassaro will also be handed the same prize.

Youngsters prove future is very bright for club

HARLOW athletes stormed to victory at the West Essex Schools cross country competition at Burnt Mill School.

Harlow Athletic Club coaches Paul Bailey and Nat Fisher were delighted with their young charges' performances.

There were victories for Charlotte Pratt and Kai Boggan, winning their respective Year 7 races, followed closely by Savanna Sirkett (2nd), Joe Morgan (2nd) and Ronnie Edwards (4th).

In the Year 8 and 9 races Lewis Harknett produced a stunning run, striding into first place and proving he is definitely a force to be reckoned with as the cross country season commences.

Following him closely into second place was his twin brother Owen Harknett, who has made huge improvements over the past three months.

Claudia Andrews, after suffering a number of serious injuries, produced a strong performance to come home 14th.

Amy Edwards, one of the club's successful triathletes, ran with determination to take second in the Years 10 and 11 race.

Sam Randall achieved an admirable third place finish in the boys Years 10 and 11 race.

There were other notable performances from Zach Newman, Shaemar Boldizar, Amy Price and Megan Reid.

Gina Bailey, vice-chairman of Harlow Athletic Club and a senior teacher at Henry Moore Primary School, was thrilled with the results.

"The club is so proud of all our athletes' amazing performances," she said.

"Our athletes pride themselves on embracing the community values

Hawks boss hails Junior – he's flipping fantastic!

Harlow Tn ..... 5
Wroxham ..... 2
(FA Trophy, preliminary round)

BY ALAN SCOTT

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IT wasn't just his flipping fantastic goal celebration that had Hawks boss Danny Chapman purring after new signing Junior Appiah's two-goal show helped put Wroxham to the sword in Saturday's FA Trophy tie.

Appiah might have been frozen out by Ryman premier club Billericay but the east Essex club's loss is certainly a massive gain for Harlow Town.

Chapman said: "Junior [Appiah] is very similar to Junior Dadson and in the last couple of weeks we have lacked that pace. That's what Junior brings – and he will get goals."

"Dadson got 27 goals last year and we are looking for the same return from [Appiah] as well. It didn't work out for him at Billericay."

The breakthrough came on 16 minutes. Shane Stamp's left-wing cross was flicked on by Billy Jones, leading the line in the absence of the injured Alex Read, and Appiah stabbed it over the line from point-blank range.

Harlow doubled their lead when Dave Cowley chipped an exquisite ball through to Appiah and he ran to the edge of the six-yard box and dinked the ball around Wroxham keeper Elliot Pride and into the bottom left corner on 24 minutes.

Harlow added a third goal four minutes before half-time to put this match to bed. Left-back Layne Eadie followed up a Harlow attack well and smashed a shot from six yards into the roof of the net.

The game reignited on the hour as three goals were scored in three minutes.

On 62 minutes, Wroxham pulled a goal back out of the blue. Striker Nathan Stone was given far too much time and space and he made Harlow pay as he unleashed a piledriver of a strike which flew from 22 yards out into the right side of the net, giving Hawks keeper Ed Thompson no chance.

The third goal, and Harlow's fifth of the afternoon, came on 64 minutes when Wroxham gave Harlow substitute Jarod Small all the space he needed as he picked it up on the left side and curled a delightful chip into the top right corner.

A fracas involving about 15 players saw Wroxham players clash with some of the home fans behind the visitors' goal near the 70-minute mark. But the referee defused this well.

Appiah was denied his hat-trick on 75 minutes when Pride raced out of his six-yard box and did well to block his shot.

Wroxham pulled another goal back on 81 minutes.

Thompson raced out of his goal but Stone cleverly played it across to the far right post and Remy Gordon passed it over the line.

Chapman added: "I thought today we had one of our better defensive performances. We were always in control. But we let ourselves down at the end, the second goal should not have happened."

Harlow, who picked up £2,500 in FA prize money for this win, were drawn away to Ryman premier strugglers Lewes in the first round on November 1.

● RYMAN League secretary Nick Robinson presented Hawks president Ron Bruce with a long-service award at half-time during Saturday's match.

Bruce has been involved with the Ryman Isthmian league for 25 years, and he was given a framed certificate to recognise his stalwart service to football and to the club.

Ladies look to end bad run

HARLOW Ladies travel to close neighbours Chelmsford thirds on Saturday hoping for a morale-boosting win having conceded 12 goals in their last two matches.

The Sawbridgeworth-based team are fourth from bottom in the 12-team Essex Hockey League premier division.

For the second successive week they lost by a 6-1 scoreline, this time at home to Wapping thirds.

Harlow player Emma Tweddle said: "The scoreline did not reflect the balance of play but we played our toughest game of the season against excellent opposition."

The game had barely begun when Wapping took the lead but Harlow equalised within a minute with a sharp short corner routine, as Charlotte Byers continued her impressive run of scoring in every match she has played this season.

The game settled into an even first half with chances for both sides and at half-time both teams could be happy with a score which was a fair reflection on the balance of play.

Harlow made changes at the beginning of the second half and the returning Carolyn Welsford had numerous shots from the top of the D well saved by the Wapping keeper.

Player of the match Spencer had another solid game in the centre of midfield.

A deflected shot looped over Rowley as Wapping took the lead.

Three goals in quick succession including an unstoppable roof of the net thunderbolt ended all hope of a Harlow recovery.

In the East men's Hockey League division six south east, Harlow were awarded a 5-0 walkover after University of Essex cancelled.

This result moved Harlow up to third in the division.

Harlow show class against Cambridge

HARLOW Ladies won 17-0 at home to Cambridge Select Ladies in the National Challenge South East North division one.

The Lady Rams started well and went ahead when winger Davina McLellan picked a perfect line to score the opening try beneath the posts.

After some strong passages of phase play Harlow were rewarded as flanker Louise Steel took the ball over the line.

Harlow went into the half-time break leading 10-0.

Harlow's Carla Marshall-Souch prevented a try by throwing her body on the line, disappointing Cambridge and forcing a scrum.

Another run from McLellan released captain Sarah Stimpson to run over the try line for Harlow's third try of the game, which she then converted to conclude the scoring.

Harlow need more players. Email ladies@harlow-rugby.co.uk for more information.

Jack try-mendous

JACK Almond scored a hat-trick of tries in the Harlow Colts' brilliant 17-12 victory at Letchworth in a friendly.

The Hertfordshire side had fought back to level the score at 12-12, but the Young Rams found that extra bit of spirit to notch a deserved win.

Almond playing in his favoured position of scrum-half, scored the last of his three tries with just two minutes left. Alfie Clark slotted over one conversion.

Harlow's U13s won 20-5 at Stanford.

Ten-try feast flexes Rams' title credentials

THE Rams produced their best performance of the season so far to move up to third place after securing a fourth league win of the campaign.

Playing up the hill in the first half, Ryan McGlone's penalty gave Harlow an early 3-0 lead.

Old Brentwoods scored a try on 10 minutes.

Harlow's first try came after 25 minutes. McGlone carried the ball well in midfield and Paul Prindiville touched down.

A McGlone penalty and a second Old Brentwoods try left Harlow leading 13-10 at half-time.

Harlow ..... 74
Old Brentwoods ..... 10
(RFU, London & SE division three north east)

The second half was a very different affair as the Rams scored nine tries.

Will Grimley scored Harlow's second try in a corner, following excellent play from Darren Hawkins, Kain Claridge and Josh Drake. McGlone converted to put Harlow 20-10 up.

By 65 minutes Harlow had scored five more tries and were well and truly out of sight.

With the whole team now brimming with confidence Harlow scored the best try of the game. Substitute Mark Bowering pounced over the line after several off-loads between backs and forwards covering 40 yards.

There was still time for one more try before substitute Shaun Roberts, returning to the team after a holiday, scored his second and Harlow's tenth to round off an excellent team performance.

Harlow's other try scorers in the second half were: Prindiville, Luke Bowering, Roberts, Goodey, Francis Brown and Rob Mackie.

Mackie said: "Charlie Woodington and Barney Goodey controlled the game from 9 and 10 and made sure Harlow played in the right parts of the field."

McGlone scored 22 points, kicking eight conversions and two penalties.

On Saturday, Harlow visit Sudbury who are one place above them in the division, and have scored 250 points already this season.

HARLOW: Ephgrave, Bolt (M. Bowering 50), Prindiville, Unwin (Palmer 60), Twiner (Roberts 50), Hawkins, Drake, Claridge, Woodington, Goodey, Grimley, L. Bowering, Brown, McGlone, Mackie.

Derby sees six-goal second-half feast plus a red card!

SIX goals and one red card ensured a second half sizzler followed a goalless first half, but Hawks boss Danny Chapman must be concerned at his side's defensive deficiencies.

Harlow Town threw away a 2-0 lead AFTER hosts Heybridge had been reduced to 10 men when the two Essex rivals met in the Ryman division one north on Tuesday evening.

But the Hawks then added two more goals in the last nine minutes, as the cavalry arrived in the shape of striker Alex Read.

Read was a substitute nursing an injury, but Chapman certainly did not want to risk dropping points against 10 men, and he was rewarded as Read netted the fourth, his 21st goal of another prolific campaign.

The game turned on the sending off of Heybridge defender Aaron Gayle seven minutes after the restart, following a goalless first half.

From the subsequent free-kick Dave Cowley curled the ball home to give Harlow the lead.

Then on 57 minutes Cowley's free-kick was headed in by Hawks central defender Michael Toner at the far post for 2-0.

But Heybridge hit back immediately as the 10 men halved the deficit with a Reece Morgan goal on 58 minutes.

And it was 2-2 on 71 minutes. A poor header back to Hawks keeper Ed Thompson fell short, allowing Swifts striker Billy Hunt to fire home.

Hawks regained the lead on 81 minutes. A cross was headed in at the back post by sub Jarod Small.

Read restored the two-goal lead on 86 minutes. The striker won possession inside the box, turned a defender and rifled in.

The win extended Hawks' unbeaten run to 16 league games and kept them top but it was with a sigh of relief from Chapman against what is traditionally Harlow's bogey side.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "We have not kept too many clean sheets this year. That's something we are trying to work on."

Hawks star dreams of invincible season

LAYNE Eadie would love Hawks to emulate the achievement of Arsenal's 'invincibles' side from 2004 - by going through the league season unbeaten.

Harlow

Town are undefeated in their first 16 Ryman division one north games as they prepare to host close neighbours Cheshunt this Saturday.

As long as we get promotion, I don't care. I would love to say we could be the invincibles, but we just need to keep our feet on the ground and don't get carried away."

The left-back, pictured left, is adamant that anything less than promotion is a disappointment for Harlow - and he's targeting the title this season.

"I think we're the best side in the league. I do believe that. We want promotion and we will have under-achieved if we don't do that. We want to win the league this year."

Eadie, who signed for the club in the 2013-14 season, says the signing of winger Junior Appiah gives the team a strength in depth that rivals will struggle to match, but admits he was surprised how good the former Billericay man was in match play after a poor training session when he took some stick from team-mates.

"Junior looked ropey in training. He got a bit of a battering. But he looked frightening [against Wroxham, a 5-2 win]. They looked scared of him. To get two on his debut is pretty impressive," said Eadie.

The left-back knows Harlow have goals written all over them now, and are certainly looking the most entertaining side to watch in the division, as well as being table-toppers.

"Ready [Alex Read] scores goals for fun but we have [Dave] Cowley, [James] Smith, they are all capable of getting double figures and I'll be surprised if they don't.

"Shane Stamp and Junior will also score. Ready is already on 20, so we have got a very good attack."

Eadie says Harlow have all the ingredients to go up to the Ryman premier next term.

"We have been behind in quite a few games, so to show that character to come back and win these games, we are also a very close bunch," he added.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman claimed Harlow are now 29 games unbeaten in the league, stretching back to last season.

"Our last defeat was at Waltham Forest. There is a confidence about us, and that's a fantastic trait to have."

Central defender David Kendall suffered cracked ribs in the win over Barkingside. He will be out for three weeks.

Utility player Robbie Martin suffered a dislocated shoulder and will be out for three weeks.

At the Chelmsford Park run 5K, David Page was 134th out of 374 in 24:23.

Leopards march on

ESSEX Leopards are clearly enjoying their new home at Harlow's Leisurezone.

The English Basketball League side made it three wins from three with an 82-56 victory against Westminster Warriors in a National Trophy group match at Harlow on Saturday.

Meanwhile, the EBL have declared last week's loss at Kent Crusaders null and void due to a sub-standard court. Leopards now need two points from their remaining three Trophy games to seal top spot in the group and home advantage in the quarter-final.
